MENTORING

Who I Am

I am a devoted cafe latte consumer, a Belgian chocolate addict, an analogue enthusiast, a travel fiend, and a habitual pedestrian who likes to walk abandoned streets. I believe everyone has a story to tell and I like to hear those stories and express them through the medium of film photography. I compiled this guide because I found myself early on in my business needing guidance and assistance and have, since then, been motivated to give others the support they needed in their own creative endeavors. Mentoring is a powerful tool for sharing experiences, fostering personal development, and gaining confidence in your work. The mentoring sessions I offer are tailored to fit your needs, work through your struggles, enhance your brand, develop a marketing strategy, review your portfolio, revise your pricing and create a plan to take your photography business to the next level. My aim is that the collaboration and efforts on both our parts will strengthen your skills and grow your business so that the results are long lasting and fruitful to you.
